

First day of Fall

With that first day of Fall, let's remember some changes in temperature can occur and be extremely sensitive or suddenly severe especially in some areas such as the Mid-West and/or when your wines are shipped from far away sailing with a long transit time making difficult the anticipation of temperature upon arrival.

Please note that the coverage of "alteration of temperature" with a container equipped with thermal blanket is suspended during the period from November 1 (date of arrival) through March 31st for any shipment going to the Mid-West Area – Great Lakes area or any "remote" inland destinations.

So it is recommended to use reefer containers to prevent and protect your wines with that utmost solution.
